RAILROADS IN RUSSIA.

A Third Class Passenger Is Alternately Baked and Frozen.

Mr. Stevens, in his journey through Russia, made up his mind to travel one stage in a third class railway carriage. This plan would give him information that might be useful and would also save him a little money, which he could turn over to Count Tolstoi for the starving peasants. He found the experiment extremely unsatisfactory. He says:

"The third class carriages were so densely packed that there was hardly room for me, but after much scrambling I secured a seat near the door. I shall never forget that journey. It was an awful experience. I felt as if I were being frozen to death and roasted alive alternately. Outside the cars the temperature was 35 degrees below zero. Inside the mercury stood at 77, a difference of 112 degrees F.

"Inside it was so hot that even the muzhiks, who are fond of roasting themselves, gave signs of discomfort. The heat came from a large iron stove, which the attendant kept feeding with birch firewood. As for myself, I was melted. The perspiration poured out of every pore of my skin. My unfortunate fellow travelers gave vent to their feelings in groans or ejaculations.

"Now and then the door was opened by a new arrival, and instantly the carriage would be filled with an intensely cold air.

"'Hi, you there!' the muzhiks would call out. 'Shut the door! You are freezing us to death.'

"A curious phenomenon sometimes occurred on such occasions. The cold gusts which forced themselves in when the door was opened immediately condensed and crystallized the vapor, so that we had a miniature shower of snow in the carriage.

"A few of the passengers appeared really to enjoy this alternate freezing and roasting. They crowded about the stove. One, a tall, sturdy soldier, carrying a sword of tremendous size, crept so close to the stove that the escaping gases made him fall down in an unconscious state, from which he was aroused with difficulty. He was wearing his military overcoat.

"At the first stoppage I bought a new ticket and went into a second class carriage."—London Chronicle.

An Animated Cradle Rocker.

During one of his trips to the Coast Range mountains, Joe Cohen, a peddler, came to a lonely cabin and found the door wide open.

In the center of the floor stood a cradle, in which was an infant fast asleep. The cradle was rocking with surprising regularity, but no sign of what propelled it could be seen.

Joe's curiosity was aroused. He went to the cradle and found a stout cord attached to a nail driven in the side of it. The cord passed through an augerhole in the side of the house. He took up the trail, which soon led him into a ravine where a donkey, or burro, was standing and switching its tail.

The mystery was explained. The other end of the cord was tied to the jack's tail, and the constant switching of its caudal appendage furnished motive power sufficient to rock the cradle.—Newman Banner.

Outwitted by a Moonshiner.

When Jack Roper was called in the United States court, he arose and pleaded guilty to working in an illicit distillery.

With a number of others, he was sent to one side to await sentence.

Working in an illicit distillery is nothing but a misdemeanor, while operating a distillery is equal to a felony.

Roper knew this and entered his plea to working in the distillery, which was accepted.

"How long did you work?" asked the judge when the man stood up for sentence.

"Oh, 'bout a week, I reckon."

"Whose distillery was it?"

"My own."

The judge looked puzzled, but all he could do was to give him a two months' sentence for working in an illicit distillery.—Atlanta Journal.

Grandiloquent Titles.

Oriental titles during the middle ages were sometimes very grandiloquent. The king of Arrachan was known as "Emperor of Arrachan, Possessor of the White Elephant, Owner of the Two Earrings, Legitimate Heir of Pegu and Brahma, Lord of the Twelve Provinces of Bengal, Master of the Twelve Kings Who Place Their Heads Under His Feet."—Exchange.

True Economy.

"So you have bought your wife another expensive ring. Isn't that a waste of money?"

"On the contrary, it is true economy, for she won't require half so many pairs of gloves as formerly."—Fliegende Blatter.

Very Moving.

Harry—Well, I never heard but one speech that moved me.

Cecil—Who made it?

Harry—My landlady. She said I'd have to pay in advance or move—and I moved.—London Tit-Bits.

"Everybody's queer except thee and me," said a Quaker to his wife, "and sometimes I think thee's a little queer."

Two Colors of Tobacco Smoke.

Smoke consists of minute particles of solid or liquid matter suspended in the air, and its color depends partly upon the chemical constitution of such particles, but also largely upon their size. Exact experiment has shown that, as the size of minute particles suspended in air is gradually increased, they give rise to colors varying from sky blue down through the whole range of the spectral scale. This is the cause of sunset and sunrise colors in the sky. Its effects can also be traced in the case of the two kinds of tobacco smoke, modified by the murky tints of the carbonaceous products. The smoke given off from the heated surface of the burning tobacco in the bowl of the pipe consists of matter all of which has been highly heated and very fully oxidized and decomposed. It consists mainly of exceedingly small, solid particles, exhibiting by virtue of their smallness a bluish color. On the other hand, that smoke which has been drawn through the tobacco into the mouth of the smoker carries with it a relatively large quantity of water and hydrocarbon, which are condensed upon the solid particles above mentioned. The relatively large size of such particles explains the well known grayish color of the smoke which issues from the mouth of the smoker.—Tit-Bits.

A Strong Lassie.

"When you talk about strong men, I can tell you a story," said a local truckman today. "It was before I was in the jobbing business that there lived in Lewiston a woman who could beat all the strong men from Samson to Cyr.

"She was in the old grocery store on the corner one day when the proprietor pointed to a couple of flour barrels, saying, 'Mary, if you'll carry them home I'll give them to you.' Sanborn, who was a truckman 30 years and who sold out to James Cole, was there and offered to bet that she couldn't carry one.

"'Put them on the counter,' she said, 'and I'll take them both.'

"Four men lifted the barrels up and she went up to them full of confidence, and resting the bottom of one on her right hip, circled the barrel with one of her long arms and then swung around so as to grasp the other in the same way, and as I live she carried them out and along the street to a place 300 yards down the road, where one of them fell and upset her balance. You see, she rested them on her hips and didn't try to lift them by her back. The grocer gave her the flour."—Lewiston Journal.

A Lesson In Grammar.

Fun frequently comes out of the public schools, despite their functions as solid, solemn educators. But this is only natural. There must be fun and smiles where there are bright faces and youth and health. Not long ago a teacher in this city was drilling her pupils in the application of certain words in relation to other words. She had the youngsters much interested in building sentences around a given expression. One of the words presented was "use." Several children had made a sentence containing the word, when the teacher called upon a particularly bright young rascal to make a response. The youth did not like another member of the class, and it suddenly dawned upon his young brain that it would be a good idea to apply his sentence accordingly. He faced his disliked companion, and pointing his finger at him scornfully said:

"You's is no good."

Of course the teacher laughed. The other children laughed, and the boy laughed, too, but it took two days for him to learn that the slang contraction, "you's," was not the word desired.—St. Louis Republic.

Some German Houses.

It is a hint that comes from a woman recently returned from a considerable residence in one of the German art cities that the closest inquiries should be made before taking lodgings or apartments into the cleanliness of the beds and furnishings.

"In some of the most attractive appearing and apparently faultless places," she says, "we have been fairly driven out after a short stay, forfeiting the rent rather than undertake to accept the conditions. At last we put the question bluntly every time, expressly stating that if on trial the apartment was found to be infested we should claim the right to move at once."

This traveler's experience may have been exceptional. It is at least actual, and as such perhaps is a note of warning.—New York Times.

See Only the Good.

There is an old pagan fable of a man who for some crime of injustice was cursed with the power of seeing other human beings, not in their beauty of flesh and blood, but as skeletons, gaunt and grisly. Too many of us have this miserable faculty, and go about stripping off every worthy charm and beauty with which our friends are clothed to find and expose some ugly trait or passion underneath.—Christian Advocate.

The Dear Girls.

Esther—Did he kiss you?

Tena—He hadn't the nerve to do that.

Esther—It would require considerable.—New York Herald.

THE IDIOT.

Through his misshapen soul and brain
No thought has passed and left its trace,
And all that brings man joy and pain
Finds in his breast no dwelling place.
His life is the world's stain.

The horrid vacant visage leers
And shows its heritage of woe;
The scars—the sins of ancient years.
Could any love or hate it? No!
Pity may give her tears.

—Dr. Frederick Peterson.

NOCTURNAL ANIMALS.

Their Deficiency In Color Made Up by Proficiency In Sound.

It is noteworthy that in almost every race and climate the colors of nocturnal animals are dingier and gloomier than those of their diurnal allies and representatives. This difference is due of course to sexual selection, which cannot exert itself upon colors or spots in the darkness. The butterflies, for example, are beautifully arrayed. Their night flying cousins, the moths, are dull gray or whitish.

Day birds are often decked in brilliant hues, like pheasants, toucans, macaws and sun birds. The owls and nightjars, on the contrary, are dull and inconspicuous. Our English swift is just an aberrant humming bird, who has taken to hawking flies in the northern twilight and grown black accordingly. Most parrots come forth gorgeous in red, blue and yellow, but the nocturnal New Zealand owl parrot, whose name sufficiently proclaims his skulking nature, has acquired a coat of dingy gray green, exceedingly like that of many owls and goatsuckers, and so on throughout. A creature so brightly colored as the blue faced mandril, or the great bird of paradise, is always sure to display his fine feathers or brilliant decorations to his observant mate in full flood of sunshine, while, conversely, night roamers like bats and ratels and wombats and bears are always remarkable for their unobtrusive coloration.

One way exists, however, in which nocturnal animals may make an effective display to attract their mates, and that is the system of phosphorescent flash signals adopted by the glowworm and firefly. It may also be noted that an unusually large proportion of noctural animals have musical voices or make loud love calls.

The nightingale and nightjar are well known instances in point in northern climates. Visitors to southern Europe will remember to their cost the tree frog and cicadas that make sleep impossible, while the howler monkeys, the laughing hyenas and the screaming lemurs of the forest are equally familiar pests to tropical travelers. All the loudest and most persistent voices are voices of the night.

The whippoorwill and the katydid are as common in Massachusetts as the cuckoo in England, while the strident noises made by the numberless insects, which rub their legs against their sides so as to attract their mates, effectually banish sleep in many parts of tropical America.—Cornhill Magazine.

Vegetable Diet.

Vegetarianism is often called a fad, but it is a healthy and innocent one and the natural reaction against the present state of things. It imparts lightness and elasticity to the body, brightness and clearness to the mind. The vegetarians I know are all unusually strong, active and young looking people for their age. One of them walked without stopping for 34 and another time 27 hours without rest while on an excursion in Norway, feats not easily equaled by the most inveterate beef eater. Traveling, mountain climbing, all seem easier and less fatiguing on this light and soothing diet, and why should it not give strength to the limbs and sinews if one reflects that all the strongest animals who do the heaviest work in the world, like horses, oxen and elephants, are entirely herbivorous?—Lady Paget in Popular Science Monthly.

Colonel Stone's Witty Retort.

Colonel Stone of Tennessee, when he was running for governor, met for the first time a delegate from one of the rural counties to the state convention. The colonel said: "I am glad to meet you. I have known your father for many years, but I never had the pleasure of your acquaintance. I see, however, that the son is better looking than the father." "Look here, colonel," said the delegate, "you need not be flattering me up, for I am out and out for Barksdale for governor, although the old man is for you." "Why, I simply find you better looking than your father, but I did not say you had half as much sense as he has," returned the colonel. Those standing around roared with laughter, in which the delegate good humoredly joined.—Exchange.

"Dunno. Some lawn mower manufacturer, I suppose."—Buffalo Courier.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

The administration fared much better on the Hawaiian question in the House this week than in the Senate. In fact the Democrats in the House have upon every opportunity proven themselves to be more loyal to President Cleveland than have the Democratic Senators. It is whispered in inside circles that news will arrive before Congress comes together again that will put an end to the Hawaiian incident, it being understood that the last dispatch sent to Minister Willis instructed him to withdraw the offer he had made to the Queen if she had not before he received it agreed to accept the proposed terms of her restoration, and to officially inform the provisional government that he had done so.

Congressmen who remained here until after the Tariff bill was reported to the House supplied themselves with numerous copies of the majority report thereon, for distribution among their constituents, the length of the report precluding its entire publication by the smaller newspapers. The state in which they find public sentiment will have its effect when they return to Washington.

Copies of Secretary Carlisle's annual report were also in demand by departing Cangressmen. There are several recommendations therein that the opinions of influential constituents will be desired upon, notably that asking for authority to issue $200,000,000 in bonds. The report makes a pamphlet of 62 pages. It shows that the financial condition of the country is unquestionably in immediate need of legislation.

The nomination of Hon. Wayne MacVeagh to be Ambassador to Italy was much better received by the Republicans than by the Democrats. Mr. MacVeagh was all his life a Republican, until just previous to the last Presidential election, when he announced his intention to abandon his party and to support Mr. Cleveland, on account of the McKinley tariff law. Mr. MacVeagh was once a Republican partisan of the most radical type, and it wasn't so long ago, either, he having been one of the "visiting statesmen," who went to Louisiana to look out for the interests of Mr. Hayes in the settlement of the Hayes-Tilden dispute. He was Attorney General in the short-lived Garfield cabinet, and shortly after he retired to private life he began to exhibit symptoms of mugwumpery. His ability is conceded by all, and even if he were not a brother-in-law of Senator Cameron his confirmation would not have been less prompt than it was. He has been a warm personal friend of President Cleveland's for many years and it is probably to that friendship that he owes his nomination.

The United States Supreme Court adjourned to-day until January 3rd. It is not often that the Justices of this Court express an opinion upon anything pending before Congress, but several of them have said that they thought the delay in acting upon the nomination of Mr. Hornblower was unjust, both to the Court and to that gentleman. They say he either ought to be confirmed or rejected. The vacancy in the Court serves to delay its business.

The action of Congress on the amendment to the Urgency Appropriation bill, appropriating money to pay the mileage of members both for the extra and regular sessions of Congress, was not creditable. It was done in a manner, too, which implied that those who favored the appropriation were ashamed of it, and all attempts to get a yea and nay vote on the mileage item were switched off by shrewd parliamentarians. The amount involved isn't so big as that which made the notorious salary grab so unpopular a few years ago, but it is none the less a grab. It was charged when the proposition to take a recess from the extra to the regular session was so vehemently opposed that mileage was at the bottom of it, mileage not being allowable for a recess, and it looks as though the charge was correct.

If the Populist Senators agree with those in the House and refuse to vote for the new Tariff bill because it retains protective features it will materially lessen the chances the measure has—not any too good at the best—to get through the Senate The Populists in the House have not positively agreed on the programme, but they are thinking of offering a free trade measure, based on the old Walker tariff as a substitute for the Wilson Tariff bill, not with any expectation of its being passed, but to put themselves on record as opposing the present (McKinley) tariff law, as well as that proposed by the Ways and Means Committee.

Washington, Dec. 23, 1893.

GRISWOLD VS. PIERATT.

The Tree-Budding Contract Which Led to the Suit.

ED. INDEX-TRIBUNE:

I see by your issue of the 23rd inst., that I have got judgment against N. W. Griswold in his suit brought against me for $1885.50. I had a counter claim against him for $193, and costs of suit of $93.

Griswold instituted his suit against me last February. He succeeded in getting the suit continued from time to time before Judge Crawford. On the 19th of September, 1893, the case was transferred to Judge Dougherty's Department of the Superior Court at Santa Rosa and a trial speedily followed. The evidence was concluded on the following day, and the case was taken under advisement for one week by Judge Dougherty, at the expiration of which time he decided that Griswold had no cause for action against me. And now, after a lapse of three months he has also decided my suit against Griswold in my favor. This looks like Sonoma justice was a little slow.

The causes which led to these suits were substantially as follows: Griswold came to me on the 22nd day of September, 1892, and asked me to bud his fruit trees. I told him it was too late in the season for successful budding. He said that Prof. Lelong was an authority good enough for him and insisted that I should go ahead with the budding, as the Professor claimed it was not too late in the season.

I began to bud the trees on the 26th of September and finished my work on the 29th of October, 1892. It rained on the 15th of October and frost came on the following day. I then quit work and notified Griswold's foreman that buds would not take after frost had fell on the trees. The foreman of the ranch then went to San Francisco and notified Griswold that I had refused to go on with the budding owing to the frost. Griswold telegraphed next day to go ahead and keep on budding the trees.

I followed directions and got 40 per cent when I did not expect to get one per cent.

In payment for my work he gave me a draft which was not worth the paper it was written on. Hence the law suit.

Because people will not listen to common sense is simply the reason why there are so many failures in budding and grafting. In conclusion I will say that Mr. Griswold can come nearer to making a man believe that white is black than any man I know of.

I will be in Glen Ellen next week to finish some of my grafting contracts.

Capt. Rodin, formerly proprietor of the Sonoma House in this place, sailed from San Francisco last Saturday for Astoria, Oregon, as first mate on a sailing vessel plying between those ports. There are a number of people in this town who wish the Captain a safe return as they have a little business to transact with him concerning a few bills he owes in this place.

We wouldn't trust a man near a hen house who would order a newspaper stopped through a postmaster when he is in arrears. It is a cowardly way of refusing to pay an honest debt. Yet there are lots of people in this world that are just that dishonest. And the biggest part of this sort are not the poorer ones either, but those amply able to pay if they only possessed the desire of paying.—Ex.

Arthur Neal, the well-known teamster, met with an accident last Saturday night that will lay him up for a month or two. While passing along First-street West, the night being a dark one, he lost his bearings and stepped off the stone curbing in front of Wegner's drug store and stumbled headlong into the gutterway. His left leg, which had been injured in an accident some years ago, was badly sprained and injured and he was unable to arise. He was seen to fall by G. S. Harris and others, who quickly went to his assistance. He was picked up and taken into the Union Livery stables, and Dr. Sullivan was sent for. He was so badly injured that he was unable to walk or sit up, and had to be carried home on a mattress. No bones were broken, but owing to the leg having once been fractured the injury is a serious one.

The Sonoma House, Harry Fisheer proprietor, is a popular resort for commercial travelers. *

CHINESE REGISTRATION.

Collector Byington Receives His Instructions to Prepare.

Internal Revenue Collector Byington, Thursday, received instructions and the following letter from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington, D. C., to prepare for the registration of Chinese laborers :

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15, 1893.

H. W. Byington, Collector Fourth District, Sacramento, California—SIR : By an Act of Congress, approved November 3rd, 1893, the provisions of the Act approved May 5th, 1892, for the registration of Chinese laborers in the United States, were extended for a period of six months from the first-named date.

Revised regulations and blanks have been prepared for carrying into effect the provisions of this law, and a supply has been sent you.

You will at once proceed to give notice through the public press and by posting such notices as may be necessary in sections where the Chinese are located, advising them of their rights under the law, and of what is expected of them in the premises.

You will please advise this office by the 1st proximo of the progress made in your district in respect to carrying out this work, and the disposition manifested by the Chinese in regard to registration.

Your attention is called to the fact that the law as amended provides "that it shall be the duty of all Chinese laborers within the limits of the United States before the passage of the Act to which this is an amendment, to apply to the Collector of Internal Revenue of their respective districts within six months after the passage of this Act for a certificate of residence."

This makes it neccessary that all Chinese laborers who made application and received certificates under the Act of May 5th, 1892, shall again make application and receive certificates of residence under the present Act. Respectfully,

JAS. S. MILLER, Commissioner.

Verdict for Plaintiff.

Arthur Hulbert got a verdict of $1,700 damages in his suit against the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway Company in the Superior Court at Santa Rosa last Saturday. The company will appeal the case to the State Supreme Court, and they will no doubt succeed in getting a retrial of the case, as the verdict is not considered by many fair-minded people to be a fair one. Young Hulbert, the plaintiff in the case, boy-like was playing "horse" on one of the company's turntables in Santa Rosa several months ago and got his left leg caught between the end of the table and the timbers which supported it and had the member badly crushed. That the accident was no fault of the railway people ought to be patent to any one, as the boy had no business on the turntable. The jury who tried the case, however, took a contrary view, and hence the verdict.

A Set Back.

Mrs. F. McG. Martin, Superintendent of Schools of this county, at the recent Teachers' meeting held in Stockton essayed to be the President of the Association. Her apponent was Prof. Kleeberger of the San Jose State Normal School. When the votes were counted it was found that Professor Kleeberger had 244 votes and Mrs. Martin 75. The latter we understand is an aspirant for the Republican nomination for State Superintendent of Schools, provided, of course, if she can carry her home delegation, and the above was a test vote of her popularity with the teachers of the State.

Apportionment of Taxes.

The County Auditor has made the following apportionment of taxes for the year 1894 : The delinquent taxes of 1892 amount to $5,661.62. This has been apportioned as follows : To the Indigent Fund, $252.03 ; Bond Fund, $336.08 ; School Fund, $644.11 ; Road Fund, $788.76 ; General Fund, $1209.82 ; State Fund, $2,430.82. The taxes of 1893 amount to $291,645.86. Apportionment as follows: Indigent Fund, $13,771 42 ; Bond Fund, $19,068.13 ; School Fund, $34,958.22 ; Road Fund, $27,116.05; General Fund, $49,577.12 ; State Fund, $117,104.92.

The success of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in effecting a speedy cure for colds, croup and whooping cough has brought it into great demand. Messrs. Pontius & Son, of Cameron, Ohio, say that it has gained a reputation second to none in that vicinity. Jas. M. Queen, of Johnston, W. Va., says it is the best he ever used. B. F. Jones, druggist, Winona, Miss., says : "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is perfectly reliable. I have always warranted it and it never failed to give the most perfect satisfaction." 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers.

There is something intellectual associated with the tea drinker, a pleasant sort of intellectuality. In spite of all the lectures which have been read against it by those who make their living by reforming the human race, tea is without doubt a great blessing of modern living, restoring the nerves without exciting to unnatural strained exertions like other stimulants.

About twenty of the fifty-nine applicants for teachers' certificates failed to pass at the recent examination held in Santa Rosa. These were deficient in the principal studies known to our common school system, to-wit—spelling, grammar and arithmetic. That these aspirants were very properly rejected goes without saying, when we state that had they averaged only fifty per cent in those studies they would have passed a successful examination.

At St. Francis' Church Christmas services were held last Monday morning. Several masses were celebrated by the visiting priest Rev. Father Clancy. High Mass was celebrated at 11 A. M., by the resident pastor Rev. Father Whyte. The interior of the church was tastefully decorated with evergreens and flowers. The three altars were elaborately trimmed with beautiful white flowers, palms, trailing vines and wreaths. The following were excellently rendered by the choir, which was composed entirely of childrens' voices: "The Gloria," "The Kyrie," "O Salutaris," "Adeste Fideles," "Glory to God," "Tantum Erego," etc. Little Miss Julie Granice sang Adam's "Noel" at the offertory. A few drops of glycerine put in the fruit jars the last thing before sealing them helps to keep the preserves from moulding on top. Half a teaspoonful every half hour will cure Summer complaint or dyspepsia. Applied to shoes, glycerine is a great preservative of the leather and effectually keeps out the water and prevents wet feet.

Whatever kind of fuel is used in the house insist upon it being good. If you burn wood have at least half of it dry. Have a wood shed and see that it is filled. Peace is a long step in godliness, and it should be maintained in the family, but disturb it temporarily, if need be, until enough wood is provided to last at least six weeks. Some men say, "oh, anything will get burned if we bring it in." Any man who amounts to any thing knows that womans' work is harassing enough without tormenting her with green, wet wood. Whenever I see a large wood pile I know that man appreciates his wife and his position in his household. othing less than a saint can keep her temper and cook breakfast over a sulky, undecided fire when the kitchen is blue with smoke, and the wood sings psalms and sheds tears.

Chris. Evans, the Bandit, Escapes.

The people of the Pacific Coast were given a great surprise yesterday morning when the telegraph announced that the noted bandit, Chris. Evans, had escaped from the Fresno Jail at 5 o'clock Thursday evening. He was assisted in overpowering his jailor by another man named Morrel. Pistols were presented at the jailor's head and he was compelled to open wide the doors of the jail. The bandit and his companion then took the jailor prisoner and marched him down the street in the direction of a waiting horse and buggy. Before reaching the turnout, however, the men ran across City Marshal Morgan and Wm. Wyatt, ex-Deputy Sheriff, both of whom were overpowered and disarmed, but not before Evans had shot and badly wounded the former. The bandit and his companion then seized a horse and buggy which was standing near by and made good their escape. The whole country surrounding Fresno is aroused and up in arms, and it is very probable that Evans will be either killed or captured inside the next twenty-four hours.

The Sonoma Public School.

B. F. Campbell, Capt. E. P. Cutter and R. A. Poppe, Trustees of the Sonoma Public School, held a meeting in the law office of the latter last Thursday afternoon to select teachers for the new term. Miss Mandilla Gingery was chosen principal of the school. Miss Susie Shaw and Miss Minnie Cook were re-engaged, the former as teacher of the intermediate department and the latter to preside over the primary department. The school will reopen on January 29th. The High School, with Prof. Abshire as Principal and Miss Georgia Reed as Vice-Principal, will reopen on January 8th.

The Ladies' Home Missionary Society is protesting against the admission of Utah as a State because polygamy is not yet dead in that Territory. A little thing like polygamy will never injure the morals of Washington society.

Clear skies, green grass springing up, balmy zephyrs and even violets in December. Who would not live in California?—Lakeport Avalanche. Ah, who would not? And then add to all the dainty effects of nature, the charm and the glory of our California women, and who can blame the skeptic if he prefer to live as long as he can in this paradise on earth, rather than be too eager to fly to that other paradise where his reception might not be so cordial.—Sacramento Bee.

For pains in the chest there is nothing better than a flannel cloth satuarated with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of pain. It will produce a counter irritation without blistering, and is not so disagreeable as mustard ; in fact is much superior to any plaster on account of its pain-relieving qualities. If used in time it will prevent pneumonia. 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, DEC. 30, 1893.

ROYALTY IS EXPENSIVE.

It Must Carry a Fat Pocketbook and Spend With a Lavish Hand.

There have been times when a court was splendid and nearly starving and kings were magnificent who could have understood the position and felt the pride of the master of Ravenswood. But all that has passed away probably forever. The prince of today who is to be magnificent at all, who is to be free in his movements to take trains when he likes, to entertain like any other dignitary, to show good horses and many of them, to keep servants sufficient to secure that guests accustomed to luxury be not neglected, to travel when he pleases, to patronize art, to encourage charity and to live when necessary among equal princes, as becomes the nation he represents, must pay away money at every turn and always be ready with more.

Everything costs, from the special train which secures punctuality and freedom from pressure, to the rooms, which loyal or hospitable crowding render exceptionally dear. It is all very well to speak of good management, and of course there is such a thing, and it is worth perhaps 30 per cent of additional income.

But no extent of good management will reduce the cost of any kind of magnificence or do away with the feeling of the innkeeper who charged a royal guest a franc apiece for eggs, not because eggs were scarce, but because kings were. We have heard of charges paid by an Indian viceroy at a Paris hotel which would have made Mr. Vanderbilt wince, and there is not an uneducated man in any land who, if a prince disputes his charge, does not become a republican.

Nor within limits is this feeling altogether unreasonable, for the demands of princes, which are usually only demands for freedom, upset the usual routine, just as the queen's train, though her majesty asks only a little extra security and some privacy, upsets the routine traffic on the great railway by which she travels. Moreover, though extravagance is a vice, economy is often a foible, and one rather sympathizes with the hint given by the noble who assisted Louis Philippe in his search after a lost sovereign by lighting a bank note. State, in fact, in our day costs money, and it is as expensive to be a prince, if you live like a prince, as to be a spendthrift heir.—London Spectator.

Cathedral of Chartres.

Seven hundred years ago the present cathedral of Chartres began to rise above the ground. At the beginning of this century its life seemed all but exhausted. Damaged by lightning in 1825, it suffered severely from fire in 1836. The restoring carried on, continued in many essentials, torations, has not yet been completed.

Friend and foe, the mediæval and the modern, the builder, the destroyer and the restorer, have covered it with memories, each one of which helps to make it what it is. Though the history of the cathedral of Chartres has not been as rich in stirring events and exciting episodes as many another French cathedral—those of Paris and Reims, for example—it epitomizes the whole of French history and thought.

The chronology of a church dedicated by St. Louis, in which Henry IV, casting aside his Protestantism, was anointed with the sacred oil sent by heaven to Clovis, and which lasted until human thought had progressed sufficiently to dedicate its ancient walls to the Goddess of Reason, cannot but have a lasting and impressive interest to every student of history and of architecture.—Architectural Record.

A Legend of the Seven Stars.

To the naked eye six of the Pleiades or "Seven Stars" seem to be of about the same magnitudes, while the seventh is very dim. The dim star, the legend says, is Merope, one of the seven daughters of Atlas and Pleione, and her paleness is a punishment visited upon her for having married a mortal. The other sisters all married gods. Alcyone and Celæno married Neptune. Electra, Maia and Taygeta were wedded to Jupiter and Sterope to Mars. Poor Merope united herself to Sisyphus, a common mortal, and was doomed to eternal dimness for her rash act. Besides this her husband must throughout all eternity roll a huge stone up a hill. As soon as it gets to the summit it rolls back, and his never ending task is again resumed.—St. Louis Republic.

He Was Out.

At a country cricket match a rustic judge had been strictly instructed that no appeal could be allowed from his decisions. A "ball" somehow came off the wicket. "How's that, umpire?" said the batsman. "Out," cried he. "Yeow lie!" was the response. "I kneaw I du," replied the judge (in fact, he had been looking another way at the moment, but the word had been spoken). "I kneaw I du, but I'll ha' yeow out for all that!"—Cornhill Magazine.

Mistaken Identity.

A young lady visiting for the first time in the country was alarmed at the approach of a cow. She was too frightened to run, and shaking her parasol at the animal she said in a very stern tone: "Lie down, sir! Lie down!"—Calcutta Times.

Newspaper Reporters.

I once congratulated an English reporter, who told me he had reported Gladstone's speeches for nearly 20 years, upon knowing that statesman so well.

"God bless you," said he, "I don't know him at all. I was once unable to escape from his car without passing him, when he came in unexpectedly, and a friend introduced me to him. But I never presumed upon that, you know."

To "beat" his fellows is still the chief aim and glory of every man who writes on the news pages, but the "beat"—as an exclusive piece of news is called—is growing to be more and more a product of intimate acquaintance with public men, and less and less a result of agility of mind and body.

I remember a delightful half hour when a Tribune man tried to reach a country wire first in order to get his dispatch started and to shut me out. We had to run three miles over a plain that was one great glare of ice.

He was the faster runner and appeared to have everything his own way, but suddenly he slipped and rolled down the side of a gulley, to bring up at the bottom badly hurt. The tearing of his clothes and peeling of his face did not bother him, but his ankle was sprained, and he could not walk without help.

"I give up," said he. "Will you help me to the village?"

"I don't know," I replied. "Is the wire mine?"

"Of course," said he. "I'm done."

But I gave him his turn at it.—Julian Ralph in Scribner's.

Fox and Cromwell.

One day Fox, riding into town from Kingston, caught sight of Cromwell's coach near Hyde park and pushed toward it. The guards would have driven him back, but the protector recognized him and shouted to them to let him pass.

The two men talked together earnestly till they reached St. James', when they parted, with a promise from Fox to attend next day at Whitehall. "I can give you good news," laughed the protector to one of his wife's maids as he entered the palace: "Mr. Fox is come to town." When they met next day, the stern old warrior was in one of those playful moods into which, as troubles thickened about him, he less and less frequently lapsed.

Seated carelessly upon the edge of a table, he bantered the Quaker unceasingly and dismissed him with the laughing but extremely true reflection that his self satisfaction was by no means the least part of him.

A year or so later Fox saw him for the last time. He met him riding into Hampton. "Before I came to him," he writes, "as he rode at the head of his life guards, I saw and felt a waft of death go forth against him." A few nights later, while a terrific storm was raging over London, the strong spirit passed away. Fox had lost a sincere and a powerful friend.—Macmillan's Magazine.

Poodle and Lamb.

Not long ago I was passing a barnyard in this place and stood to look over the gate at a pretty half grown lamb standing alone outside the barn. But the sight of me so enraged a fierce, shaggy gray dog tied up to his kennel between the lamb and me that he barked himself nearly into fits, showing all his teeth and straining so furiously at his chain as to make me quite nervous lest it should give way. In the meantime I struck such terror into the heart of the lamb that it fled across the yard to place itself under the protection of the dog and stood close by his side while he barked and danced with fury.

As I drew a little nearer the lamb backed right into the kennel, and when, after I had made a circuit in order to watch the further movements of this strange pair of friends from behind a tree, I saw their two faces cautiously looking out together, cheek to jowl, while the dog's anger was being reduced to subsiding splutters of resentment. He was not a collie, but a very large sort of poodle.—London Spectator.

Married His Grandmother.

There lived in the village of Arreton, isle of Wight, many years ago a young man who was betrothed to a young woman. Both were poor and in humble life, but the grandfather of the young man had money, and he fell in love with the young woman and proposed marriage to her. The girl told her lover. He was displeased, but having pondered over the dilemma saw a way to extricate himself and his sweetheart from the same. "Marry him," said he to the girl. "He is rich. He cannot live long. When he dies, you'll have his money, and I'll have you." She took the advice. By the marriage she became the young man's grandmother. Not long after the old man died, and then she wedded her first betrothed.—Brooklyn Eagle.

A Spider's Web Under Water.

There is a spider that spins a web under water, but this is for a nest and not for a net in which to catch other insects, as are most spiders' webs. The nest is made on the principle of a diving bell, and in order to get air for its home the spider carries down a bubble at a time and sets it free beneath the bell.—St. Nicholas.

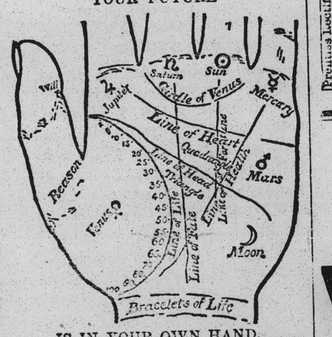
YOUR FUTURE



IS IN YOUR OWN HAND.

Palmistry assumes to tell what the lines in your hand indicate. It will amuse you, if nothing more. The above diagram almost explains itself. The length of the LINE OF LIFE indicates probable age to which you will live. Each BRACELET at wrist means a year. Well-marked LINE OF HEAD denotes brain power; clear LINE OF FORTUNE fame or riches. Both combined mean success in life; but you must keep up with modern ideas to win it. You will find plenty of these in Demorest's Family Magazine, so attractively presented that every member of the family is entertained. It is a dozen magazines in one. A CLEAR LINE OF HEART bespeaks tenderness; a straight LINE OF FATE, peaceful life; the reverse if crooked. A well-defined LINE OF HEALTH spares you doctors' bills; so will the health hints in Demorest's. No other magazine publishes so many stories to interest the home circle. You will be subject to extremes of high spirits or despondency if you have the GIRDLE OF VENUS well marked—keep up your spirits by having Demorest's Magazine to read. By subscribing to it for 1894 you will receive a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides the superb premium picture, 17x21 inches, "I'm a Daisy!" which is almost a real baby, and equal to the original oil painting which cost $3 00; and you will have a magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep you posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fads, and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and you get with it, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2 00, and you will really get over $25 00 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send for a specimen copy. A large QUADRANGLE means honesty; a large TRIANGLE, generosity; long FIRST DIVISION OF THUMB, strong will; LONG SECOND DIVISION, reasoning faculty. The MOUNT OF JUPITER betokens ambition; that of SATURN, prudence; the SUN, love of splendor; MARS, courage; MOON, imagination; VENUS, love of pleasure; and MERCURY, intelligence. Take our advice as above and you will be sure to possess the last and most valuable quality.
